An audio analysis of the London Tube bombers suicide tapes have determined that the terrorist cell responsible is in fact The Beatles, lead by a fugitive bearded terrorist who goes by the false name of Ringo Starr. The Australian Prime Minister John Howard has lead calls to ban The Beatles from being played at public gatherings, and have people who talk about The Beatles to belocked up.

Guantanamo Bay detainee David Hicks this week revealed he's English, having forgotten his mother was born in Pommyland. In an effort to secure his freedom, he quickly applied for British citizenship and released a press release saying: "Cor Blimey guvna! I was a Pom all along innay. Parse the warm beer cobber."

John Howard has voiced his ethusiasm for parliamentary terms to be extended to a possible four years. "Though I wouldn't turn down being voted lifetime Chancellor" he said.

Alleged Taliban fighter David Hicks also forgot about the time he played for Arsenal in 1999.

Labor has said the Governments new parenting laws would result in casual "Salad Bar Parenting", leading Kim Beazley to remark "Salad Bar? Where? I want some. Save me some prawns and potato salad, wouldya?"

Dear Banana Report

I'm writing to request you write an obituary for the Habues Corpus Act (1679-2005), as under new laws potential terrorst suspects could possibly be arrested without charge and not why. This is an outrage.
Mr Boogles, Sydney

Dear Mr Boogles,
Right, you're coming with us!
Regards,
-Seargent B. O'Shane, Aus Federal Police

Dear Banana Report

That John Howard is one top bloke. I reckon we should make him Vice-Chancellor of Australia for his lifetime, and then clone him and make Johnny Clone Howard our lifetime Vice Chancellor too. In the meantime waiting for the Clone to mature I suppose Costello could be leader for a bit too, cause he's tops too.

Alex Hawke, NSW Young Liberals President

Dear Alex. You're a moron.

Dear Sydney Morning Herald

You didn't publish the result to last Tuesday's Soduku and also, you had one answer wrong on the cryptic crossword on Thursday Sept 22. The clue 'Palace Hair, Is a mother?' should have answered Blanche of Lancaster (March 25, 1345 - September 12, 1369, NOT Henry of Grosmont. That's the 5th mistake this month.

Regards, B. Carr, Maroubra.

Dear B - Check your Address Book, mate.

Hi, I'm John Brogden. Now, I'm not able to leave the house as much as I used to, but I still like to have an icy cold beer? The Solution: Broggers new Home Brew kits. Your preselection to an electorate of flavour!

Editorial: Everything's Great! By George W Bush.

Now I know of peoples been harpin onto me people drownin and dyin and stuff. And a lot of people been thinkin' I a unthankful and unapathetic guy. People think I don't know what its like to be up to by neck in tepid water and about to drown? Well hell, I say they obviously don't remember the Abu Graib scandal. But, I'm here to re-assure everyone that there's absolutely nothing to worry about. Everything's great! According to suhtistics I got off on my my advisers, unemployment is at a record low of minus three million percent, everyone owns a magic golden horse that lays eggs made of nougatt, and the price of flat screen TVs have reached an all-time low. So relax. Have a cocktail. Everything's Great.

George W. Bush is Commander in Chief of the United States.

Now my top 5 things about poisoned lollies

1. kills little children
2. comes in four flavours: strawberry arsenic, vanilla mercury, banana uranium and new cherry.
3. look just like regular lollies, only poisoned
4. flavour lasts the whole day long. and then you die.
5. not tested on animals, instead tested on back benchers
